73-year-old retired San Antonio Police Sergeant Alfred Trinidad died Tuesday, October 13th of natural causes. He had served 51 years with the Department and for most of his career was assigned to the Patrol Division. He retired on August 1, 2008, conducting his last roll call the day before.

“He was a dedicated and committed officer who left an indelible mark with our community and the department. We honor his distinguished service to law enforcement and will always remember the legacy he has left behind” says San Antonio Police Chief William McManus.

Retired Sergeant Alfred Trinidad leaves behind his wife of 46 years and two daughters. He was preceded in death by his son whom he lost in 1998.
